Single-Family Dwelling Permit

Applications within a Platted Sub-division with a Plat Book and Page Number

Building Inspections Division is pledging to have a response to the applicant of a single-family dwelling within three business days once a building permit number has been assigned to the application or the permit is free.

To help you through the process, there are Five Easy Steps to get a Permit.

1

Construction Plans Sufficiency Review.

2

Review for applicable zoning, wetlands and possible variances. At this time a planning land use number will be assigned to the application.

3

Application package will be reviewed by Building Inspections Division and entered into the tracking system. The three business day clock starts once the building permit number has been assigned.

4

Plans Review. Your construction drawings will now be reviewed for state code compliance.

5

Applicant will receive a response from staff within three business days with the results of the plan review or the permit is free.
